

Vocabulary: Evaluating Scientific Explanations

- Ockham's razor – the general principle that an explanation requiring many unconfirmed hypotheses is less likely than an explanation requiring fewer.
  - Ockham's razor is named after Sir William of Ockham, a 14th-century monk.
- Principle of parsimony – a synonym for Ockham's razor.